The changes were made in the name of increased safety and security, and it was stated that the change was made in order to "protect [its] members."

The news has attracted mixed responses from users. Some believe it's an improvement since it's more reliable, and fixes most of the bugs that caused users to constantly lose their work. Others think that it is useless due to the fact that ROBLOX Studio randomly changes collision methods and there are no descriptions on how to remedy this problem. Some have even started questioning how Roblox handles the games they host as well as some of their policies towards adult players/contents, and other problems like spam bots.

This is because there are many cases where both inappropriate content spreads rapidly through the site, but ROBLOX does nothing about it because they do not want to ban accounts for minor rule violations like swearing, nudity or spamming in chat.

ROBLOX has also been criticised for being very difficult to use and has many bugs within the site interface itself, problems which seem to go unresolved by the development team despite repeated complaints over a number of years. Although the website's interface is not difficult to use, it has become more complex over the years with features such as video editing with a dedicated program and large amounts of unnecessary superfluous features. Some of the features include: UIs for uploading and viewing custom models, importing music, applications, and sounds; importing sounds from WAV files; creating galleries; creating art sheets; creating an unlimited amount of variations for models by changing their scale and pose; adding animations to models (e.g. walking); creating global themes which change every time you go into a game or lobby; creating global music tracks in .
